The Other Kind Live There.

A Boston clergyman a short time ago was anxious to refer to a book called "Seekers After God." Ransacking bookstores and libraries for it, he finally recalled to mind that a Chicago friend, also a clergyman, had frequently quoted from it, so he wrote him to look about in the Chicago bookstores and buy the book for him if possible. By telegram came the startling reply: "No Seekers After God in Chicago."

Railroad Tax Cases.

A Frankfort special says: "The Court of Appeals has overruled all petitions for rehearing in the recently decided railroad tax cases. The mandates are being certified to the local Circuit Court, which, at its January term, under the recent ruling, will have to decide most of these cases in favor of the State. All of which will result in the State's receiving several hundred thousand dollars on back taxes."

THE CAREERS

Of Generals Who Wore the Gray.

"What has become of the Confederate Generals?" is a question very often asked but not so easily answered. Only those who have undertaken such a task can appreciate its immensity and trouble, but if it serves its purpose I shall be content.

To begin with those of the highest rank, of the five full Generals of the Confederate Army none survive. There were 21 Lieutenant Generals in the Confederate Army from first to last, and of these all were from the United States Army but four, namely, Richard Taylor, N. B. Forrest, Wade Hampton and John B. Gordon. Of them the following are living: James Longstreet, Stephen Lee, Early, Buckner, Wheeler and A. P. Stuart, besides two of those not from the United States Army mentioned above.

Gustavus W. Smith is the ranking Major General living, and makes his home in New York City. W. W. Martin lives at Natchez, and is a railroad President. L. L. Lomax makes his home in Virginia, but is in the War Records Bureau here in Washington. Frank C. Armstrong, the best United States Indian Inspector the Government ever had, for he was born in the Choctaw Nation, is now Assistant Commissioner of Indian Affairs. Hume lives in Memphis, Tenn. Churchill has been Governor of Arkansas and lives at Little Rock. Colquitt was Governor of Georgia, and is a United States Senator from that State. Dibrell for a long time was a member of Congress from Tennessee. Lyon, who commanded one of Forrest's divisions for awhile, resides at Eddyville, Ky.

Mackall, who was Brigadier General and chief of General Bragg's staff, who lived over in Fairfax county, Va., not far from Washington, for many years, died about 18 months ago. McGowan is a member of the Supreme Court of South Carolina. W. R. Miles is a cotton-planter magnate on the Yazoo river in Mississippi. Roger A. Pryor is a prosperous lawyer in New York. John G. Walker, who was down in Central America as Secretary of Legation under Dabney Maury, died last summer.

Holmes is in Mexico mining, and I hear, making money. Of the three Lees who were Generals, Custis—who was Mr. Davis' Chief of Staff—is the President of the Washington and Lee College in Virginia. William Henry Fitzhugh Lee, generally called "Runny," who was a planter and member of Congress from the Eighth Virginia District, died three years ago. Fitzhugh Lee, a cousin of the others and a famous cavalry officer, owns the "Ravenworth" estate, on the Potomac, about 50 miles below Washington.

Robert Lee, the General's youngest son, who served in the ranks of the Rockbridge Artillery a greater part of the war, lived until recently on the James River, where he owned a handsome estate. He is more like his great father in appearance and manner than is any other Lee. He is now a resident of Washington. I have heard—though I do not know how true it is—that it is in contemplation by the Lees to remove the dust of their grandfather ("Light Horse Harry Lee" as General Washington always called him) from Cumberland, and bury it by the side of General Robert Lee.

Turning from the Lees to General Longstreet, the ranking Lieutenant General of the Confederacy, the world will be sorry to know he is getting on badly. He lives at Gainesville, Ga., and his house there was burned recently with all that was in it. General Early another of Lee's corps commanders, lives at Lynchburg, is in the practice of law and is well-to-do. Everybody knows what General Hampton, who once commanded all the cavalry of the Army of Northern Virginia, is doing, and that Major General M. C. Butler was once his colleague in the United States Senate from South Carolina.

Of the officers in General Johnston's Army of the Tennessee R. H. and Patton Anderson are dead. General Bate is United States Senator from Tennessee, and W. H., or "Red," Jackson, one of Forrest's division commanders, is living near Nashville on a magnificent plantation. General Wheeler, who commanded all of General Johnston's cavalry when he was only 28 years old, is a planter in Northern Alabama.

General Lawton, one of the Quartermaster Generals of the Confederacy is a leading member of the Savannah, (Ga.) bar, and General Gorgas, the Confederate Chief of Ordnance, died in Alabama a few years ago. General Cockrell, the ranking Confederate General from Missouri, now living, is the senior United States Senator from that State. E. C. Walthall, of Missouri, senior Major General from that State, is a United States Senator from Mississippi.

That Railroad.

The corps of railroad engineers who passed through town last week en route for Caney, have made a survey from Caney to the mouth of Elk Fork. The line leaves Caney near the farm of Hon. J. W. Steele, crossing the hill onto the Licking river near the widow Adams property, following the right bank of the river to the mouth of Elk Fork. This, it is claimed, is very accessible, the grade being easy. No tunneling except where the road leaves Mr. Steele's, and this is a short one. The surveyors on Wednesday were running a line from the point on Caney where they left the creek for the river to the mouth of Caney on the Licking river. It is thought that this will also be an easy line to build a road over, and there is considerable talk of this being the permanent line, which, if the case, will make our nearest point on the road about two and one-half miles from West Liberty. Yet there is hopes that the road will be built on the first survey, if built from Morehead, which is almost a settled fact.—Morgan Messenger.

A Four-Year Debauch.

It was a four-year debauch that caused the national headache. Present sobriety is not the cause of the headache. The Nation simply had to get sober or die of delirium-tremens. Reckless extravagance, bounties, subsidies, jobs, jingoism had to come to an end. The headache is disappearing and the national nerves are getting all right. We shall be happy yet, you bet, as Homer or some other poet has beautifully said.—(Terra Haute Gazette.)

Ask Your Friends

Who have taken Hood's Sarsaparilla what they think of it, and the replies will be positive in its favor. Simply what Hood's Sarsaparilla does, that tells the story of its merit. One has been cured of indigestion or dyspepsia, another finds it indispensable for sick headache and biliousness, while others report remarkable cures of scrofula, catarrh, rheumatism, salt rheum, etc.

Hood's Pills are purely vegetable.

Court-Day.

There was a fair crowd in town yesterday and business was good among the merchants. There were some 500 cattle on the market, of a rather better quality than usual. Good feeders sold at from 24 to 34 cents; common, from 14c. to 24c. The mule market was slow, with a large supply on the streets.

Ping horses, as usual, went at the buyers' own price.

A large tobacco barn filled with tobacco, belonging to Mr. John Benton, about two miles west of Mt. Sterling, was burned about 2 o'clock Saturday night. There was about 8 acres of tobacco in the barn, belonging to Mr. Benton and Van Tyler, his tenant. The tobacco was insured for $500 and the barn, which was valued at $600, was insured for $400. The fire was of incendiary origin.

Holiday Excursions.

The Chesapeake & Ohio Railway announces excursion rates to all points on its line, as well as to points reached by its Cincinnati connections. Apply to Ticket agents for dates of sale, limits and other information.

The Syracuse Salt Works, the most extensive in the United States, have an evaporating surface of over 12,000,000 square feet.

TO CALIFORNIA.

The Land of Sunshine, Fruit and Flowers.

The Midwinter Exposition already much talked of, bids fair to rival the great fair that has just closed at Chicago—not in size, perhaps; but certainly so in originality, in richness, and in delighted visitors, who will unanimously agree that the Pacific Coast is worth many times the time and money spent to visit it, in its return of delightful climate, mellow sunlight, wondrous growth of vegetation, and the heretofore unheard of net-work of industries connected with fruit raising, and the shipping of the product.

In order to give an opportunity for everybody to visit this wonderful land during the Exposition, California rates via the Queen & Crescent Route have been reduced, and every one may find the cost of such a trip within his means.

As for equipment, it is the only line by which you can travel from Cincinnati to San Francisco, absolutely without change. Tourist sleeping cars run every two weeks through from Cincinnati to San Francisco. Solid vestibuled trains twice a day from Cincinnati to New Orleans, where connection is made with through trains and Pullman sleepers daily to California points. Through car service to either New Orleans or Shreveport making direct connection for Texas, Mexico and California. From Louisville through trains make direct connection at Lexington with solid vestibuled service to New Orleans.

Send to us for further particulars. Ask Agents for rates, schedules and other information, or address W. C. Rineason, G. P. A., Cincinnati, O.

A Fearful Collapse.

The new bridge being built over the Ohio river, at Louisville, gave way on Friday precipitating some fifty workmen into the river. About 10 a. m. while a strong wind was blowing, it was noticed that the false work was giving to some extent, and that the "traveler" (the movable crane) was swaying very much. Suddenly there came crash, and the almost completed span was precipitated into the river with nearly all the workmen. The dead taken out number six and the injured sixteen, while sixteen more are numbered among the missing, all of whom are supposed to be killed. About 8 p. m. the same day a second span of the bridge fell. Those who had charge of the work attribute the disaster to the strong wind. Outside authorities seem to be of the opinion that such a disaster could only have arisen from some culpable neglect in providing proper supports for the unfinished work. This bridge has been a singularly unfortunate venture. This not being the first fearful disaster it has suffered.
